Version: 5 Date: 15 November 2015

Reviewer: Pernilla Stenström

Reviewer's report:

Dear authors,

I think that the manuscript has improved much, and changes have been made according to the reviewer's recommendations.

In this revised manuscript the classification of the unusual type of ARM is clarified and the overall article is worth publishing. However, I still think that the English language must be improved (Essential revision).

I also think that the legend to Figure 4 should include the name of the three subtypes of ARM described (Discretionary revision).

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
